

flute

notation

normal breathed pitch (B.P) tongue ram (T.R.) slap

The first staff shows four measures of music. The first measure is labeled 'normal' and contains a whole note on the middle C line with a small circle below it. The second and third measures are labeled 'breathed pitch (B.P)' and each contains a whole note on the middle C line with a small circle and a cross below it. The fourth measure is labeled 'tongue ram (T.R.)' and contains a whole note on the middle C line with a small diamond below it. The fifth measure is labeled 'slap' and contains a whole note on the middle C line with a small triangle below it.

11 frull. (frullato)

breathed noise (a e i o u sh) sing (sing the pitch above the note)

The second staff starts with a measure number '11'. It contains ten measures of music. The first two measures are labeled 'breathed noise (a e i o u sh)' and each contains a whole note on the middle C line with a small circle and a cross below it. The third measure is labeled 'sing (sing the pitch above the note)' and contains a whole note on the middle C line with a small circle and a cross below it. The fourth measure is labeled 'frull. (frullato)' and contains a whole note on the middle C line with a small circle and a cross below it. The fifth measure is labeled 'sing (sing the pitch above the note)' and contains a whole note on the middle C line with a small circle and a cross below it. The sixth measure is labeled 'frull. (frullato)' and contains a whole note on the middle C line with a small circle and a cross below it. The seventh measure is labeled 'sing (sing the pitch above the note)' and contains a whole note on the middle C line with a small circle and a cross below it. The eighth measure is labeled 'frull. (frullato)' and contains a whole note on the middle C line with a small circle and a cross below it. The ninth measure is labeled 'sing (sing the pitch above the note)' and contains a whole note on the middle C line with a small circle and a cross below it. The tenth measure is labeled 'frull. (frullato)' and contains a whole note on the middle C line with a small circle and a cross below it.